Happy Birthdays.
To Have Thin Ankles.
No Drink in Boys' Schools.
Germany's New Boat.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THURSDAY prohibition's tenth birthday. Congressman Beck (Republican), from Pennsylvania, formerly solicitor general, says the prohibition law can't be enforced "because it is contrary to human nature."

PROHIBITIONISTS reply that the same thing would have been said when the human race was trying to free itself from cannibalism; and when the attempt was first made to close up the wide-open red-light districts. Nevertheless, cannibalism went; and red-light districts have at least put out their red lights.

IN ACCORDANCE with President Hoover's views, Congressman Williamson seeks to shift the enforcement of prohibition from the treasury to the department of justice.

That is common sense. When beer, whisky and gin meant a great revenue for the government it was the business of the Treasury to collect the money and prevent moonshining.

NOW that beer and whisky have been pushed into the criminal code and become the foundation of the great crime wave, whisky crimes, like other crimes, should be handled by the Department of Justice.

DR. OLGA STASTNY, of Omaha, "official physician to America's organized business women," says working girls should learn to "loaf like a man." Women, to be successful, must learn to sit as men do, with their heels on a desk higher than their heads, and relax.

MANY men, including probably John D. Rockefeller and Herbert Hoover, have succeeded without putting their heels higher than their heads during business hours. A considerable number of "heels-higher-than-heads" young gentlemen are far from success.

THE learned Dr. Stastny says that putting their heels on the desk will "change girls' thick ankles into thin ankles." Girls will pay attention to that.

THIS, however, is no "flat contradiction" of anything that Dr. Olga Stastny may say. She is an admirable woman, 6 feet tall, "remarkable in strength and intelligence, and did wonders just after the war taking care of 10,000 Armenian refugees."

She probably never put her heels on a desk in her life. She is too busy.

REFERRING to increase of drunkenness among young people, it was mentioned here that head masters of big preparatory schools, Groton, St. Marks, Lawrenceville, Choate and many others, could give information as to the youthful drinking. In those preparatory schools well managed, in the hands of competent masters, there is, needless to say, no drinking by the boys. It would not be tolerated for a moment. Any boy found with liquor in his possession would be instantly dismissed. And the honor system, among boys, prevents drinking or any dealing with bootleggers, regardless of regulations. But when those boys go home for vacation, they see what happens in the homes and at young people's parties. The know what the other brothers and sisters do. And they tell the headmasters.

GERMANY puts the new powerful cruiser Koeln in commission, a cruiser more powerful than any of those we are planning to build.

The Koeln, 6,000 tons, carries among other weapons, nine six-inch guns, and torpedo tubes. Electric welding takes the place of riveting, which will interest American steel engineers. Welding reduces weight. The six-inch guns fire in groups of three, six to eight salvos a minute, effective at 20,000 yards. German is effective at 20,000 yards. Stay down.

COMPANY WILL SPEND $50,000 IN REMODELING

Deal is Closed by Manager Ralph T. Couch.

ONCE FORD HOME Business Offices on West Fifth Street Front.

The purchase of the three-story Camarda garage building, West Fifth street, by the Ohio Power company, was announced today. The consideration was private.

Improvements and alterations costing $50,000 will be made to the structure, future home for the power company in the East Liverpool district, Ralph T. Couch, manager, said.

The building has a frontage of 60 feet in Fifth street and extends 130 feet to West Drury lane. It is strictly fireproof, with a full basement, entrance to which is from Drury lane.

Occupancy Structure June 1. The improvement program calls for business offices in the front part of the first floor with storage quarters at the rear. On the second floor will be other offices in the front of the building with additional storage space at the rear. Plans for the use of the third floor have not been worked out.

The basement will be used for a garage and also for the storage of heavy materials. Plans are also being considered for electrical heating and ventilating of the building. Stairs and a passenger elevator will connect the three floors.

The improvements will be completed on or about June 1. Michael Camarda, former owner of the structure, will continue his automobile repair and storage business in the garage until April 1, when the remodeling work will be started.

Erected Seven Years Ago. The garage was erected by the Liverpool Motor company, then local Ford and Lincoln distributors, about seven years ago. Camarda acquired it from the company.

The Ohio Power company has been located in the Leland Thompson building, East Fourth and Washington streets, since taking over the light and power business of the East Liverpool Traction & Light company in 1917.

In the campaign 1,257 members of the $1 class, 34 members of the $5 group, 16 of the $10 classification and 28 of the $25 type were enrolled.

BANDITS RAID GAME IN HOTEL

Chicago Men and Women Guests Scramble Under Table as Robbers Get $3,500.

By International News Service. CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Forcing men and women guests to scramble under the tables, four bandits early today invaded an alleged crap game in the Knickerbocker hotel and robbed a score of guests of $2,500 in jewelry and $1,000 in cash.

According to police, the bandits broke up a gambling session. The robbers ascended to the Florentine room in the hotel elevator, adjusting handkerchief masks, then burst in upon the party with guns drawn.

Several women screamed. The men pleaded, but were silenced with a curse.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN BANDIT. By International News Service. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—Columbus police today began an intensive search for a lone woman bandit who late yesterday held up and robbed a Kroger store here.

Police believe it was the second recent hold-up for the female bandit. Another Kroger store was held up and robbed here two days ago. Descriptions which were given to police by both store managers, coincide, which led police to believe that the same hooded-bandit "pulled" both jobs.

FLOOD WATERS SWEEP VAST ZONE IN SOUTH

Break in Big Lake, Ark., Levee is Disastrous.

FARMS HARD HIT Concern is Centered in White River Territory.

By International News Service. MEMPHIS TENN., Jan. 17.—Sweeping southward to the accompaniment of freezing temperatures, swirling torrents of flood waters from the Mississippi tributaries claimed a vast new territory today.

A major break in the Big Lake, Ark., levee, flooded more than 200,000 acres of rich farm land. The break, small at first, soon widened to a 250-foot gap, and workmen abandoned an attempt to save the dyke.

The break was not unexpected. The lake, located in Mississippi county, Ark., had been a critical point four days, and after the big break, the pressure in the lake diminished considerably, decreasing the danger of more serious collapses.

Engineers said more than 20,000 cubic feet of water swept through the crevasse each second.

Concern was centered today to the White river between Georgetown and Beavals Bluff, Ark., where a number of breaks were believed to be imminent. Crews which have been working around the lock to reinforce the White river levees were augmented today by hundreds of laborers.

Crews started an attempt to raise the Jackson Bayou levee on the White river two more feet, as the structure can stand only 20 feet of water, engineers said. Thirty-two feet of water was forecast.

Loans for Flood Areas. By International News Service. WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A $6,000,000 appropriation for loans to farmers and stock raisers in the flood and storm stricken areas of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia was authorized by the senate today. The measure must be approved next by the house.

The funds will be made available for loans on the purchase of seed, stock or fertilizer. A similar provision was made last year, and most of the loans were repaid. A separate appropriation of $1,660,000 was authorized to aid Alabama in restoring federal aid roads, destroyed in recent floods. To obtain the money, Alabama must raise an equal sum.

Senator Smith (D) of S. C., fathered the farm aid bill while Senator Heflin (D) of Ala., had charge of the other measure.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS VOTE 'CLOSED' MEETS

Executive Sessions to Be Held in Future.

DEBT REDUCED Lease of Patterson Field Tract is Refused.

Executive sessions of the board of education, abandoned several years ago, will be held in the future, it was decided at a meeting in the high school building last night.

John W. Vodrey, who took his place as a member of the board about 10 days ago, expressed the opinion that executive sessions should be held.

By unanimous vote the board agreed to go into a "closed" session at the conclusion of regular meetings.

A request of T. F. Sniley, West Eighth street greenhouse operator, for the use of a tract of ground eight feet wide in Patterson field in order to add another boiler to his greenhouse, was refused after an investigation into the deed given the board by the late Monroe Patterson. The deed stipulated that the tract was to revert to the heirs, should the ground be used for other than athletic purposes.

Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer, reported that the indebtedness of the board would be reduced by approximately $131,400 by the end of this year. No bonds have been issued since 1927 when $13,000 worth of deficiency notes were sold. Bonds amounting to $29,800 were paid off in 1928, $50,300 in 1929 and $51,300 will be liquidated this year.

PREMIER CALLS U. S. LEADER TO LONDON HOME

Naval Arms Parley Delegates Receive Welcome.

THRONG CHEERS English Statesmen Greet Americans At Plymouth.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Secretary of State Stimson, unaccompanied by any of the other members of the American delegation to the five-power naval arms conference, went to 10 Downing Street, the official residence of Premier MacDonald, this afternoon where the two statesmen were closeted in a private conference.

The conference, it was believed, was held by the leaders of their respective delegations, to enable them to acquaint each other broadly with their aims at the forthcoming disarmament parley.

The fact that Secretary Stimson visited the premier alone was rather unexpected. In all previous preliminary discussions which Mr. MacDonald has held with other delegations, all the members of the visiting delegations were present.

The American delegation arrived here from Plymouth at 2:10 p. m. today (9:10 a. m., E. T.) and received a rousing welcome from an imposing throng of statesmen and officials.

When the special train carrying Secretary of State Stimson, the other delegates, and two American ambassadors who had gone to Plymouth to greet them, General Charles Gages Davies and Hugh Gibson, pulled into the Paddington station, they were met by Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, first lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Premier MacDonald's private secretary, Admiral Madden and Malcolm MacDonald, all of whom represented the British premier.

Throng at Station. The imposing welcoming delegation had been waiting at the station for 45 minutes for the arrival of the train.

Outside the gates of the station a huge throng awaited to accord the American delegation a tremendous popular ovation.

Secretary Stimson was the first to leave the train. He was warmly greeted by Foreign Minister Henderson.

Ambassador Dakes, taking the role of master of ceremonies, introduced the various delegates and other members of the official American party to the British foreign minister and the others of the welcoming committee.

Outside the station a number of automobiles awaited the American delegation. After chatting briefly, the visiting delegates accompanied by the welcoming party stepped into the waiting vehicles and were whizzed away to the Ritz hotel.

As the delegates appeared outside the station the waiting throng let out a rousing roar of welcome which the American delegates gratefully acknowledged.

The 15-minute ride through the streets of London to the hotel was marked by similar ovations all along the route.

At the hotel, the delegates immediately went up to the suite assigned them to rest from the long train ride from Plymouth.

Welcomed at Plymouth. After a brief but imposing welcoming ceremony staged by the city council of Plymouth, the delegation, headed by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, departed for London aboard a special Pullman train of the Great Western railway.

Cupid's Choice

By Fanny Darrell

It's not always the jewels and the Paris gowns that attract Dan Cupid. For he looks to the heart, and if the heart isn't all that he seeks, he passes it by without so much as a glance. You simply cannot pull the wool over that young man's eyes, no matter how hard you try. That's why you find so much discontent hiding in the heart of the girl who wears a gorgeous frock. She cannot understand why she is left to pine her heart away when some little girl with but one frock for every day and a best one for Sunday walks off with the man on whom Miss Money Bags has cast her eye.

But Dan knows, and I'll tell you the secret he confided to me. It's because the little girl with the few frocks has a heart that is pure and a love that is real and sincere. Because she looks for Love and whether the material things are there or not, doesn't matter. It's Love that's her world and Love that brings her the happiness she seeks. So Dan gives her the Love, and whatever else it may bring, he knows that it will be but secondary to her heart.

MAKE MIRRORS TO SUIT TASTE

Manufacturers Now Use New Method to Produce Reflectors While You Wait.

By International News Service. NEW YORK—Mirrors of any size and any shape however fantastic can now be manufactured while you wait by a remarkable process which enables an operator to spray molten tin on to glass and back the metal with a coating of zinc. Such mirrors can be produced commercially at a low price and remain perfect reflectors for an indefinite period.

The metal-spraying pistol which makes this possible can also be applied for producing a mirrored surface on the inside or outside of delicate glass tubes—an invaluable aid to ray concentration in scientific work. The dangers incurred by workers when making mirrors with mercury are entirely obviated. A large demand is anticipated for this process which opens up an entirely new use for tin.

Going to the traveling circus is the latest craze of London society.

Detroit Fireman Sues After 39 Years But Old Rule Prevents Him From Collecting.

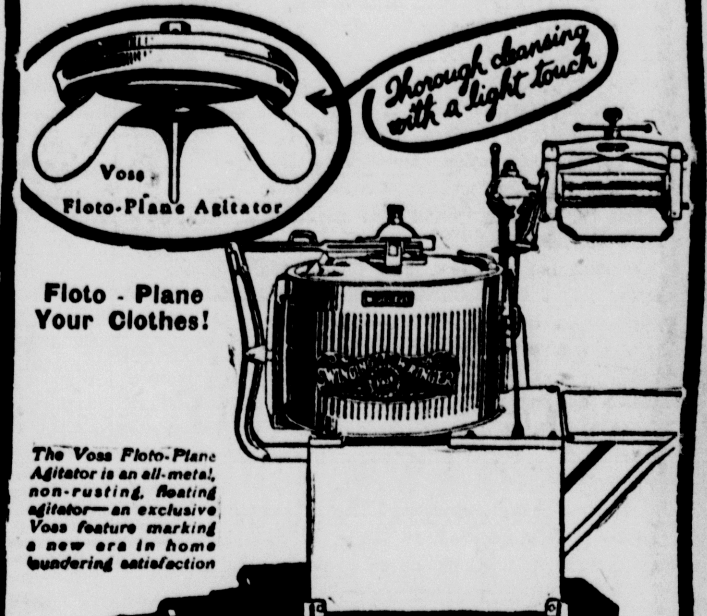

DETROIT — Detroit firemen in 1891 were not allowed to ride on fire department horses. Lewis Bogan who was a member of the fire department from Sept.

29, 1890, to January 12, 1891, learned of this recently. City council denied his petition for financial remuneration for injuries he claims to have suffered when he fell from one of the horses just 39 years ago. The council turned thumbs down on his request when the board of fire commissioners reported that in 1891 there was a regulation in force forbidding the fire fighters from riding on departmental horses.

Community Chest

As a result of a conference called by Attorney Frank H. Hoover, chairman of the Red Cross chapter, the first steps have been taken in the movement for the establishment of a community chest for welfare and relief activities in East Liverpool.

Plans for the organization of a clearing house to eliminate duplications in responses to appeals for charity, as well as the establishment of one fund for the needs of welfare societies, were discussed at a meeting at which five churches, two lodges, two war veterans' posts, the Y. M. C. A., Red Cross and Liverpool township trustees were represented.

The two-fold proposal was looked upon with favor, but definite action has been deferred until Feb. 13, when committees appointed to investigate the feasibility of the plans and also ascertain public sentiment will report.

A community chest has been in operation for many years in Cleveland, while it has also proved popular in Salem, Marion and other cities. Under it the community needs are pooled in a sense, for but one campaign is held annually. Each society which engages in relief work is permitted to draw upon the funds for its needs. In this way, frequent canvasses, in which virtually the same solicitors are called upon to do the work, are eliminated.

The experience of other cities shows that the plan saves money as well as labor. It should prove as successful in East Liverpool.

Prohibition's Tenth Birthday

Thursday the tenth birthday of the Eighteenth Amendment, whose passage and ratification marked the induction of the world's most important social experiment. Because it has been so far-reaching in effect and because it regulates the gratification of selfish pleasure, there has been much adversity. Slight help has been proffered to the government in its duties of enforcement, in spite of the fact that the men who conceived and enacted the law believed they were doing a thing which would help the nation—not the favored few alone, but every citizen.

Large numbers of Americans have stolidly refused to remember the disgusting incidents of the open saloon, the cruel poverty into which rum-crazed providers cast their families, the vast sums of money squandered in the attempt to satisfy uncontrollable appetites. The enemies of prohibition have drawn a curtain on history and ignored the fact that the United States was an intemperate nation. There has been selfish refusal to recognize that what may be one man's pleasure was too often ten men's poison. It has not, in short, been a cheering spectacle to observe the lack of intelligent co-operation in a movement which common sense recognizes as helpful.

Feltishness has opened the way to exaggeration of minor incidents which have occurred during the enforcement of the prohibition amendment and has made of them monstrous arguments for its opponents. Many of those in a position to speak have spoken blatantly, not for the nation but for themselves and have used the editorial "we" with reckless indiscriminability. They have, to use President Hoover's phrase, spoken not "whole truths," but "half truths." Their skill has led many people astray, has diverted attention from the real issue. Their criticism has been destructive; they refuse to recognize good effects, relegating them to a position of obscurity by over-emphasis of evil.

Prohibition has not, in spite of the fact that it has been in force ten years, received a fair trial. No better proof of that is needed than the voluminous preliminary report of the Wickersham commission and the message with which President Hoover presented it to congress. The entire body of the report was composed of reasons why prohibition has faltered and anyone examining it will be thoroughly convinced that no measure could possibly succeed under such handicaps. Whether or not the "wets" will allow its recommendations to be given a fair trial remains to be seen.

Prohibition, thanks to its opponents, is far more of an issue after a decade of trial, than it was when inaugurated ten years ago. News stories of 1920 tell of frantic efforts to hoard enough liquor to tide consumers over the short "dry" spell which they saw ahead of them. They were disappointed; the experiment continued and, notwithstanding paroxysms of objection, past and present, seems destined to continue. The loquacious minority has not yet gained enough strength to over-ride the majority in possession of the truth.

The prohibition amendment will have more birthdays and they will be important. One faction is eager for its defeat; another is just as jealously preparing for an unblemished victory. The latter end is assured if the citizens of the United States demand the whole truth and make their own conclusions.

Why They Object

An open letter addressed to the Marion Star and published therein endeavors to convince city dwellers that farmers are justified in objecting to hunting on their property.

The writer of the letter, a farmer, uses actual incidents affecting his neighbors and himself as proof of the grievances which city Nimrods are wont to term imaginary. He inquires:

"What would a city man think to hear the booming discharge of a shotgun in the alley and then hear the shot rattle through the shrubbery in his back yard?"

Other abuses suffered by farmers, who may or may not have granted hunters permission to roam their land, are the cutting of wire fences to allow easy passage, fences broken down where heavy individuals have struggled across them, live stock injured by stray shot and, crowning insult of all, offers of good fellowship in the form of bootleg whiskey carried as part of the hunting equipment by certain valiant hunters whose courage needs bolstering before the slaughter of a rabbit.

One is vaguely reminded by this outraged landowner's plaint of the conditions which formerly prevailed in England when royal hunting parties trampled down the fields of peasants, scattered their fences and rode roughshod over anything that happened to be in the path. Their lack of firearms was balanced by the fact that they were mounted and perpetrated their destruction in large groups. Public opinion, incensed by the fact that the offenders were of royal blood, put a stop to such wanton damage. In the United States, action is slower because the offenders are usually middle class citizens themselves.

Hunters are amazed, as hunting season follows hunting season, at the increased indifference of farmers as to whether they enjoy themselves or not. Frequently, the landowner's wrath breaks out in violent action to the amazement of the ambitious hunter who can not see why he shouldn't be allowed to do what he pleases as long as he has a good time. It is difficult for him to see that he is wearing out his welcome by his own reckless boorishness.

Unfortunately, a few offenders give the whole group a bad name. The farmer can not be expected to know in advance who will respect property and who will not and his only recourse is to exclude all of them.

What's hard to understand is the why of Mrs. Doran's "kickless cocktail." What excuse is there for the possible spoiling of a fine repast by drinking a cocktail unless it has a kick to produce subsequent exhilaration?

Other Editorial Opinions

HOOVER OPTIMISM.

Says President Hoover: "Any lack of confidence in the economic future or the basic strength of business in the United States is foolish."

This is a heartening view, and it is a view that is supported by the convictions and statements of the leading financiers and business men of America.

But that confidence and strength of the nation's business structure may not altogether be dependent upon partisan party management, manipulation and administration is suggested by a writer in the current Outlook.

Professor Rogers, of Columbia university, argues that it is plain fact that economists and statisticians can trace no casual connection between periods of depression and prosperity and periods of Democratic or Republican rule in Washington. He points to the fact that a distinguished head of a great trust company, examining the months of depression and months of prosperity during a period of forty years, discovered that there was one-half of one per cent difference between the months under Democratic administrations and the months under Republican administrations.

Which is only another way of saying that the material state of the nation is dependent almost entirely upon the principles of economic law and that business is the true ruler of the destinies of the United States of America.

Mr. Hoover probably is aware of this fact. He is merely stating a fact that has reference to the present time, with its favorable bearing upon the situation and possibilities of the future. He is, however, politician enough to make every possible claim for credit on behalf of his party, and he is economist enough to make every effort to bring to and give his party a full entitlement for all favor-achievements in relationship with economic advancement, security and stability. His position in this case appears to indicate the truth that a fact need not be argued about, even though he himself does not always hold strictly to his creed.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

August Vollmer says that "we kill 25,000 people with motor cars and the police carry some 500,000 more to hospitals, all because our policy is not 'safety first,' but 'me first.'"

ONE RAY OF SUNSHINE.

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Thoughts while strolling. Two more new coat shops on Madison avenue. The Parisian perfume millionaire who wears black silk gloves and a red lapel rose. Claudette Colbert's trim ankles. The famous warrior—Col. Hiram Iddings Bearse. And he looks the part.

Dentist sign: "Latest and most popular magazines in our waiting rooms." Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., chatting with a corner cop. Who remembers when Lobster Newburg was Lobster? Ellison Hoover, the artist. And the masterly word juggler William Bolitho. Harry Rosenthal whom everybody thought just another piano player. And who suddenly became a foremost Broadway actor. Something new to attach to a lead pencil—a digus that adds. The winter peaches—80 cents each. And an old fashioned fruit cake for $16.

A street corner accident brings a flock of photographers as quick as that. They seem to pop out of the sewers. Lots of men look like John Barrymore when they wear white muffs. Queensware store heralds: "There is no cut glass. It is pressed." Window shop and learn things.

Frank Case's high forehead. Whatever became of Thornton Wilder, who wrote The Bridge of San Luis Rey? Women in ankle length skirts who appear a trifle self-conscious. What you call 'ems who carry mustache combs. The aeroplane store on West 57th street.

What does a tennis teacher do in the winter time? Every week somebody brings out a new patented match lighter. And the thumbs are holding up bravely. A beauty salon "that blends powder to individual requirements." The steaming horses flashing around the bridal path in the park.

Nothing makes you feel so much the sucker as looking at the check for a dinner in one of those cafes tagged "ne plus ultra." The quiet dignity of a piano store. John Drew's double who manages a flower shop. H. L. Mencken standing in front of a church. And it doesn't fall down.

The prize name for the current season to this observer is Bedock Bedikes. Mr. Bedikes is in the wall paper business and came to New York from Canada.

I enjoy the flowery what-nots in the advertising of modern partment houses. This one caught my eye today: "Duplex maisonette—with open fire place and glass enclosed loggia. Ground floor service quarters and revolving wall library bar. Roof top terrace with electric fountain." Sounds almost like something by Michael Arden. You know, like this: "I am young and I love women."

A cop at Broadway and 42d street is known as "the hack driver's poison." It is his job nightly to chase cruising and empty taxicabs out of the theatrical zone and he does it with a jerk of his thumb without saying a word. None is able to crash through.

A chatty taxi chariotier also told me today he found that fares deposited at the Grand Central station invariably tipped more than those at the Pennsylvania.

"Did anybody," asks Virgil C. "ever catch his head in one of those collapsible music racks in your town and have to be filled out?"

No, but I couldn't tell you how many dear old ladies caught their fingers in the platform rockers.

One of the young debutantes, after doing Harlem, awakened in the late afternoon to find a bird tattooed on her wrist. She, according to a reliable informant, had no memory of visiting a tattoo artist.

I am indebted to a telegraph office girl for thwarting an attempt at humor this morning. Handing her what I believed to be an amusing message to an actor in Hollywood, she read it gravely and inquired: "Do you think that would interest him?" So I tore it up and I think I'll send her a complete set of my newspaper clippings for the week in appreciation. (Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

MANY persons ask "What are tonsils good for?" Well, science has not settled that question. But science does have real evidence of what damage they sometimes do.

Tonsils are made up of fibrous tissue. Deep pockets run down into the substance of the tonsil. In these pockets germs which produce poisons may be deposited. The warm mucus and food remnants are ideal materials to feed the germs. The poisons they make are taken up by the blood stream to every nook and corner of the body.

If you have pains in your joints, and perhaps any one of many other bad feelings, your doctor will say at once, "I shall look at your teeth and tonsils for 'focal infection.'" Any point in your anatomy where bacteria breed, may be the place from which poisons are spread through the circulation of the blood.

Diseased tonsils may result in rheumatism, heart disease, eye trouble, nervousness, sore throats and colds, dizziness, deafness, and many another trouble. There is no end to the sicknesses resulting from infected tonsils.

The most of us seem to hate facing the truth. Yet we all want health and happiness. If the tonsils are diseased or are not self-cleans-

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

IN the three years in which he has functioned as the night watchman of the business section of East Liverpool, Emmett B. Blake, former potter, railway man and regular army soldier for ten years, has practically walked, in the consumption of his duties, a distant equalling that around the world. Computations made by him show that he has trod in his nocturnal wanderings from place to place to see that all is well to most 25,000 miles.

He was somewhat interested in knowing how much he actually walked each night while making his constant rounds. He made the test on a Saturday night and a Sunday morning. On the former evening he goes to work at 10 o'clock, one hour after the stores in his district have closed. As he began he attached a pedometer to his belt. When he quit his activities at 7 o'clock the following morning he found that he had traveled fifteen and one-half miles.

On other nights of the week he goes on duty at 7 o'clock regularly. With this added three hours of walking for six working interims he deduced that he walked about twenty and one-quarter miles on these occasions. He thus averaged his daily walking altogether to be about 18 miles a day. Eliminating two weeks of each year when he is away upon his vacations he figures that counting all of his regular rounds and those he ever makes in an extra manner he had walked about 6,500 miles a year. In three years therefore he would be such figuring, so well over the 20,000 mile mark and not far from the reputed distance of 25,000 miles around the earth which some years ago the then famous Nellie Bly negotiated under the firm belief that "it takes a maiden to be spry."

AND Mr. Blake has accomplished this walking record upon feet that demand shoes numbering 12 with a "C" width. They have thus far carried about his 200 pounds which rise to a height of some two inches above six feet. This pair of feet, he declares, is not the largest within the immediate boundaries of East Liverpool since he himself knows of at least one man who requires a No. 11 shoe for movements under his own power.

It is passing strange, however, that when Mr. Blake began his present duties his feet were in bad condition, so much so that he suffered considerably from them. Now, following a bit of treatment and the continued regular walking to which he has subjected them while weighted down with belt, gun, club and night cap, accessories he constantly carried by him, they have apparently found themselves. They are as they were in his youthful days again. He is thus enabled to make his required points with ease and dispatch.

He covers a section from Jackson street to Broadway, west to east; and that from Fourth to Seventh streets, north to south. In all he has jurisdiction and care of 65 buildings within this domain during hours when they are unoccupied. His nightly itineraries takes him into devious places. It causes him to penetrate narrow avenues between structures in reaching doors and windows by which entrance might be made by those with base designs. Armed with a flashlight he follows over its scintillating flashes.

HE can by the use of this flashlight observe the interior of many rooms he visits. He holds a close liaison with the police force. He thus knows prevailing conditions which adds him greatly in his own immediate movements. Once during his rounds he surprised a youth in the act of entering a place and arrested him. The latter is now doing time for his act. He witnesses strange and unexpected sights at times in making his rounds. He observes many out of the ordinary and who would leave the impression they are given to early retirement.

Leaving his youthful home in West Virginia he served ten years in the regular army. He was a top sergeant in the service when the World War was entered by the United States. Before that he had been one of Gen. John J. Pershing's men on the punitive expedition into Mexico after the late Gen. Villa. He can remember well the notable change that came to Gen. Pershing following the tragic loss of his wife and several children in a fire at the Presidio, San Francisco, Cal., while he was in camp at Texas.

The ranking colonel of the regular army at the time of this camp was upon the staff of Gen. Pershing. He was the late Col. Beaumont, a brother of former Mayor Beaumont, of Wellsville of which Columbiana county town he also was a native. Mr. Blake remembers well the sudden passing of Col. Beaumont while at this same camp.

In turn, he was both top and mess sergeant as a non-commissioned officer of his company. As such Mr. Blake was kept in training camps in this country during the World War. He had much experience in assisting in guarding German born residents of this country who were kept at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. After his discharge he worked as a potter and railway man before beginning his watch duties.

WITH a Lieut. Sampson, once a fireman on the B. & O. train running between Washington, D. C. and New York city, and known as "The Cannon Ball," Mr. Blake, while in the army assisted in improving a tripod for machine gun use. This arrangement was found to be of considerable service in their actual use in warfare.

During his army years and later for an interim Mr. Blake played considerable base ball. During his potter days he at one time piloted a club in an organization in this city. In uniform he looked the part of player. His bulk was impressive at bat. When he hit the ball there was ever force behind his swing.

Since returning to a more private life than was his in his early manhood Mr. Blake has developed into a student of current affairs. He keeps quite well posted upon the conditions throughout the country and has a bent towards the political departures within it. In his relaxing moments he reads sufficiently to keep posted upon passing events.

Despite the great amount of regular walking which Mr. Blake does he can not be set down as a great eater. He dines well before coming to his duties. He carries a modest lunch with him which he eats shortly before midnight. On occasions he may add to this repeat a sandwich or a cup of coffee and he makes his rounds. Before he returns to his home in Gardendale along St. Clair avenue he may eat a light breakfast again. Arriving home he sleeps for several hours before awakening. After resting a while and dining he reports down town for his daily period of walking again.

"THE BARKER" BOY PROVES SCREEN STAR IN "CARELESS AGE"

Carmel Myers Sings and Loretta Young Talks at American

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the boy of "The Barker," story of carnival days, adds dignity and finesse to his characterization in "The Careless Age," adapted from John Van Druten's stage play, "Diver," which opened a three-day engagement at the American theater Thursday night.

Carmel Myers, of "Ben-Hur" fame, who gives a fine performance as a temperamental actress who has a lovely voice and uses it to advantage, and Loretta Young, Wampas Baby star of 1929, who is cast as the other girl who wins the boy, are the two female leads in this story of a doctor's young son, whose studies are interrupted by a violent affair with a stage star he meets at Lake Como.

"The Careless Age," which is even more thrilling and entertaining than the final stage play, is presented by an all-star cast. It is a dialogue picture with the two outstanding songs, "Melody Divine," sung by Miss Myers, and a frivolous novelty, "Say It With a Solitaire."

The picture, which will interest young patrons of all ages, has beautiful backgrounds, showing scenes in London and at Lake Como, and the theater sequence where Miss Myers sings with an ensemble of fine voices adds color to the story and beauty to the musical end of the offering.

In addition to the feature, the American bill includes Taylor Holmes in the Paramount all-talking comedy, "He Loved the Ladies," the Paramount song novelty, "Dixie," and screen topics—F. R. O. H.

WALTER LANG SLIPS ON ICE; HIS MOTHER BLAMES HOLLYWOOD

Then Jim Cruze's Aide Kicks Trunk and Breaks Leg.

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Walter Lang is a tall, husky chap who megaphones pictures for the Jim Cruze outfit. Walter went home to Memphis, Tenn., to spend the holidays with his folk. He stepped from the train onto an icy platform and promptly staggered. His mother nearly wept. She had heard about Hollywood and supposed it had gotten her son. When Walter hastily explained, she seemed when he packed his wardrobe trunk and tried to close it, he couldn't. So he attempted to kick it closed and injured his leg. He just had time to have the leg X-rayed and make the train. The X-ray negative was still wet from the developing room and when Walter looked at it he showed the leg had suffered no fracture. But it hurt and he could hardly navigate. Imagine his chagrin when he returned to town to learn his leg was really fractured. The doctor had either neglected to wire him this information or else had wired to the wrong address. Even so, Walter had a lot of fast talking to do to get him!

ACTRESS-AUTHORESS. Congratulations to Lois Moran. Lois wrote a story whilst vacationing in the Yosemite some weeks ago. She found the courage to send it to a magazine. And did. Excelsior! It was accepted. And Lois is prouder than Punch. The title of her original effort is "Kisses." College Humor scribbled the check for it.

AH HA, ART! Russell Gleason must be dithering over this art racket. Russell is playing a featured role in Universal's "All Quiet on the Western Front." The picture has reached the front stage. For fear Russell and others in the cast might respond to the lure of the holidays, Universal issued a flat order: "No fingernails to be cleaned for three weeks." That was enough to isolate young Gleason socially. That and the beard now bushing his face. When he gets home from the studio, come nightfall or midnight, he's so grimed from having rolled in the mud (atmospheric realism) that he enters the house by way of the kitchen.

CORINNE'S QUICKIE. Corinne Griffith pulled a quickie the other day on the "back-pay" set. The scene opens with Grant Withers in bed. Grant has returned from the war, blinded and otherwise injured. Corinne nurses him. Grant is a petulant invalid. Corinne upbraids him lightly with: "What you need is a good sound breakfast."

At this moment, Director Bill Seiter turned to Author John Faragoh and remarked:

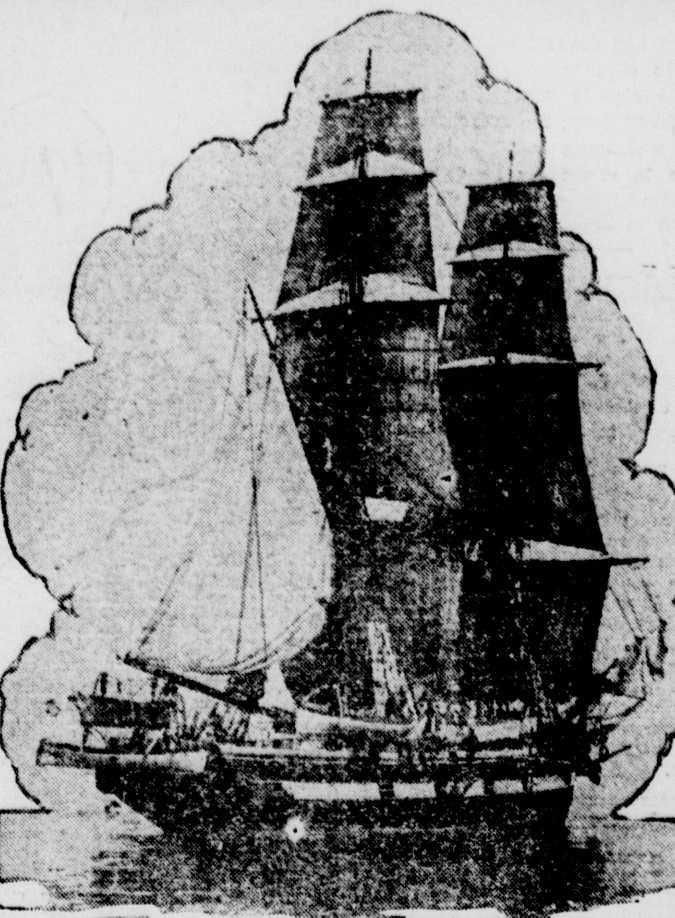

"I don't like that line, John. What do you mean by a sound breakfast?" Whereupon Corinne pulled her quickie: "You fool, he means a telephone breakfast!"

R. S. V. P., LOUISE. Pens Edwin K. O'Brien: I note in your column that Louis Fazenda is hot for genuine antiques. I wonder if a highly polished, slightly warped megaphone that goes back to the silent version of "Hell's Angels" would intrigue her interest?

GOOD BUSINESS. The following is sworn to be true. Two years ago, Walter Meyers and William Perlberg, Hollywood looking agents, sent the megaphone of Paramount a box of coconuts, with a note: "You can't miss this!" The execs savvied. They called the agents and signed up the four Marx brothers.

Recently, Meyers and Perlberg sent the same producers a package of animal crackers, with a card attached: "It worked. The four

OLD IRONSIDES REPAIR FUND IS LOW

The frigate Constitution, familiarly known as "Old Ironsides," now in dry dock at the Boston navy yard, is again in distress. Funds collected from many sources to repair her are running low. Congress has been petitioned by Representative John J. Boylan, of New York, for $300,000 to complete the job.

Marx brothers have signed a contract to produce "Animal Crackers" for Paramount as soon as they finish their current stage tour in this funfest.

WHOOOPS! Lee ("Big Time") Tracy is back in town. Lee is scheduled to make another outland for Fox. Be that as it may, he trailed into the Fox restaurant "tother noon and reached for a menu."

"I don't quite understand this," calling the waitress attention to an item reading: "Ham, Spare-ribs and Sauerkraut."

"That means that the spare-ribs are optional," she explained.

"My heavens," ejaculated Tracy. "Are they giving spare-ribs options, too?"

And—that's all.

Four new songs—picked from among two hundred of the best suited to the radio idol's method—are crooned by Rudy Vallee in his first feature picture, "The Vagabond Lover," which is showing now at the Ceramic theater.

The songs are "A Little Kiss Each Morning," "I Love You, Believe Me, I Love You," "If You Were the Only Girl," and "I'll Be Reminded of You."

The selections were made by Vallee himself after long hours spent trying the scores of numbers offered by America's best lyricists and composers.

Legions of Nerve-shattered Folks Endorse ORANGE ROOT as Greatest Nerve Tonic.

Mrs. Mathew Phillips, 715 Short St., Steubenville, O., says: "This ORANGE ROOT Iron & Celery Compound is the most wonderful nerve st adier and system strengthening tonic in the world. It did for me what all the specialists and other medicines failed to do, rid me of terrible nervousness and stomach trouble which kept me almost an invalid for years. Before taking it I was weak, thin and fairly trembled all over. The first bottle steadied my nerves, increased my strength and added 3 pounds to my thin, wornout body. Indigestion bothers me no more, and since taking the Golden Nuggets, I have no more dizzy spells and am not constipated all the time. Like I was, I advise all weak, nervous and run-down folks to take these great remedies, for they never fail to benefit." Iron and Nux Vomica are two of the greatest NERVE STIMULANTS in the world, and when you take ORANGE ROOT, you get these two great medicines in goodly quantity. Folks who have doctor-ed for years for nervousness got relief and new health ONLY after taking ORANGE ROOT. It is a failsafe to help, and a course of 5 or 6 bottles will make a stronger, healthier and happier person, no matter what your ailment might be. Take a treatment of it this very day, and enjoy freedom from pains of rheumatism, misery from stomach troubles, and relief from nervousness. It builds up the weak, creates a normal healthy appetite, and especially tones up every wear and shattered nerve in the body. A trial will convince you of the great restoring qualities of these medicines. For sale here by the Methua Medicine Store and all the best drug stores everywhere. ## CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN, ALSO THE FIGHTER Army Chief of Staff Condemns Sloppy Attire.

By International News Service.
WASHINGTON.—Clothes make the man—and also the fighter! That's what Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, says. It's his own opinion and he passed it along to members of the house appropriations committee when he was called to discuss the army's annual supply bill.

He contends soldiers can fight better when they are well dressed. Sloppy attire makes them sluggish, lose their self-confidence and lower their morale, he told the startled congressmen. He says a poorly dressed soldier is liable to misbehave which he would not ordinarily do if dolled up in a snappy uniform.

Asks Better Clothes.
"The government has been dressing the soldiers fairly well until now," he testified.

He predicted the time is not very distant when the doughboys will be diked out in rich blue serge or some other good material of blue similar to the uniforms worn by naval officers.

American soldiers look shabby when placed amid foreign troops or among their own marines and sailors, Summerall asserted. What the army needs is a good ceremonial uniform for the men to wear at various functions.

Proud To Command.
"This will make them look as well dressed as any other soldier and thereby make them proud and command respect," the general added. "And when a soldier is proud and knows he is respected by others he is a real fighter."

Summerall injected a word about deserters. The ratio of desertion in the army has decreased from 7.39 per cent in 1925 to 5.20 per cent last year.

"It's because we have provided better rations," he said. "The new food program was established in 1925. Men getting good food will not desert."

DENVER READY FOR EDUCATORS

By International News Service.
DENVER.—Denver may be the site of the next biennial convention of the Congress of World Education associations in 1931. A delegation headed by Frederick M. Governor Adams said he would suggest that the legislature next spring vote to pledge an appropriation for assistance.

The last convention of the educators' organization was held at Geneva, Switzerland.

NEW HUDSON, ESSEX SHOWN

Exhibit Opens Today
At Ray Birch Motors.

New Hudson eight-cylinder and Essex six-cylinder are today being exhibited by the Ray Birch Motors, East Sixth and Walnut streets, Hudson-Exeter dealer.

The Hudson display includes the standard five-passenger sedan, the five-passenger brougham and the touring sedan, while the Essex sedan, standard sedan, brougham and five passenger coach are being shown in the Essex models. Both Hudson and Essex coupes will be added to the exhibit probably early next week.

The straight-eight cylinder Hudson which is being produced this year replaces the six-cylinder motor. The new Hudson car is equipped with a smooth-running 80-horsepower motor with quick acceleration and hill-climbing ability. It is made in two lengths, one 119 inches and the other 126 inches. The weight of the standard sedan is but 3,316 pounds.

Essex's principal advances over the 1929 Challenger are perhaps refinements of design. But it is a completely revamped car, the engine developing 58-horsepower. Body dimensions are larger and the car is roomier than its predecessors. The wheel base is 113 inches.

The hood, radiators and bodies of both models have more pleasing contours. The nicely upholstered, more comfortable, cushioned interiors have a modern art motif. Improved ventilation system and other refinements have been installed in both cars. The prices are within practically the same range as the 1929 designs.

social evils such as human slavery and the liquor traffic. The agitation of the slavery question against this background awakened the conscience of the people and with the conviction that slavery was wrong; that, as an institution, it was violation of the laws of God and the God-given rights of men. Through a period of 50 years this conviction was growing, till at length it burst forth in the flame of a great Civil war. And this war did not end, in the providence of God, would not end, till the Emancipation Proclamation was signed by President Lincoln and human slavery was forever at an end in this country.

"We find a parallel of this in the history of the liquor traffic in this country. With the license system, which was adopted as a revenue measure to pay the cost of the Civil war, the abuse of such privilege by the traffic, and the consequent evils growing out of it the conflict, which was to be for another 50 years, was inevitable.

"Strange as it may seem the license system adopted during the Civil war to raise funds to carry on the war, was discontinued 50 years after in the World war, as a measure to win the war. Through this period of 50 years the agitation of the liquor question has been against the same background of religion, morality and education.

"Preachers and reformers were at length joined by the teacher and the master stroke was when under the leadership of the Women's Christian Temperance Union the subject of hygiene and the effect of narcotics was put in the list of subjects to be taught in public schools. From that time the place and influence of our great Christian organization has been one of the most potent factors in the conflict against the liquor traffic. For 10 years we have had national prohibition under the Eighteenth amendment of the constitution.

Must Continue To Educate.
"Reinforcements have come one after another, till the political party in power at the present time is, through its leadership and platform, committed to prohibition.

"The commission appointed by President Hoover to study our system of law enforcement, has stated that time will be necessary in the working out of our prohibition situation. Your organization is not to turn aside to mere law-enforcement program, but also teaching law observance and by keeping in the minds of the present generation the former days when the open saloon mercilessly preyed upon the home and the family income. In the city of Cleveland alone, deposits in savings accounts increased from $55,000,000 to $200,000,000 in the 10 years of prohibition. We must continue to educate.

"The one argument now being used against prohibition is that it can not be enforced. The same argument might be used against every other law and sounds like one who would put out the fires of hell with a single bucket of water.

"Politicians who may be tempted, for selfish reasons, to tamper with the Eighteenth amendment are to be reminded that there is a Nineteenth amendment to the constitution granting the right of franchise to women.

"May your good work be continued as you began, thereby strengthening every good cause and being a terror to evil-doers of every kind. Your devotion to religious morality and education merits praise and comfortable homes with happy children attest the merit of your contributions to the cause of prohibition."

PASTOR GOES TO CONVENTION

Rev. R. C. Beechley is invited to sing in Pentecostal Choir at Columbus.

The Rev. R. C. Beechley, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, has received an invitation to sing in the choir at the Pentecostal centennial convention which will be held at Columbus next week by the pastors of Ohio churches. The choir will be composed of more than 100 men.

The Rev. Mr. Beechley left today for Cincinnati where he will spend the week-end with friends. On Monday morning he will go to from there to Columbus to attend the convention. He will return home next Friday.

SACRED SONG SERVICE HERE

William Mautz will be in charge of a sacred song service in the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, Klondyke, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. He will be assisted by the Fuller brothers of the Nazarene church. The evangelistic message will be given by the Rev. E. C. Brooks, the pastor.

In his sermon last night the Rev. Mr. Brooks told of the "Great Meeting" which will take place on the day of judgment.

"We must prepare to meet God," he said. "A person may be able to lead a double life here, making others believe he is a Christian when in truth he is living a life of sin, but he can't fool his Maker."

"We all have traces of sin within us which can be removed only through the Saviour and we cannot enter the kingdom of heaven until we undergo the cleansing process.

"God has said, 'Today is the day of salvation.' This life is uncertain. We must not put off the important things because tomorrow we may be gone. The only thing we are certain of is that we must die and meet our God at the final gathering. Therefore we must prepare in this life, for in death our fate is sealed. 'Prepare to meet thy God' at any moment."

CHOIR REHEARSAL TONIGHT

Oliver F. Johnson will be in charge of a rehearsal of the Second Presbyterian choir which will be held in the church auditorium, Virginia avenue, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The House of Love

By Fanny Darrell

Have you ever entered a house and been instinctively repelled by a something that was almost indefinable? And later you found it was because you had entered a house where Love had long since ceased to dwell. No matter whether it be a palace or a hut, if Love abides by the fireside, there will you find happiness. If these be wealth and no love, of what use the material things? If there be poverty and love, there you find a household that is happy and wealthy beyond compare. For whoever enters in the house of love, is bound to find happiness and wealthy beyond compare. For whoever enters in the house of love, is bound to find happiness. And too, even though it isn't your own house, when you go to the home where Love dwells, you're bound to find Love for yourself. So take heed and slight not Love. Let Love guide your footsteps so that they may lead you to your own house, where Love and Happiness and Content will dwell with you forevermore.

OHIO mother proves her idea is right...

"My little son was bilious and upset," says Mrs. F. L. Wideman, 1900 Shaker Blvd., Cleveland. "He had no appetite, his breath was bad, his tongue was coated, and he didn't want to do anything."

"He seemed to have trouble with his stomach and bowels and I had an idea California Fig Syrup would help him. He brightened up marvelously with the first few doses. At the end of a week, he was a different boy. I have used California Fig Syrup with him every time he has had a cold or upset, and I give it a lot of credit for his wonderful condition."

California Fig Syrup never fails to cleanse the system of bilious, headache, feverish or constipated children, quickly and gently. It never gripes or sickens. Children love its flavor. A pure vegetable product with the highest endorsement of doctors. It helps Nature give tone and strength to the stomach and bowels.

All drug stores have the generous bottles. The name "California" marks the genuine.

5-YEAR PLAN OF SOVIETS IS SUPER-DREAM

Village is Unit in Russia; Land is Unfenced. STATE IS OWNER. No Modern Machinery, No School, no Culture.

By FRAZIER HUNT. European Representative for Cosmopolitan Magazine.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—It is a super-dream, this five-year program of the Soviets. Until a little more than a year ago it centered around the idea of turning the villages into co-operative farming units, each owning and operating its own tractors and machines.

To grasp all this we must for the moment forget our own American scene. Here in Russia are millions upon millions of acres of black rolling prairies, rich river bottoms, great open lands. Nowhere are there fences or permanent farm divisions. Here and there are scattered villages, but no isolated farm buildings. The village is the unit; here the farmers live, going out each morning to their unfenced strips of land.

All land is owned by the state but each peasant can have what he can work—about seven to eight acres for each soul in the family. He can not sell or dispose of his strip but it is his as long as he works it.

Dream of Good Homes. In the million villages there have been little change in the past 50 years—no modern machinery, no schools, no culture, but always the unconscious dream and hope of a better life, of education, of good homes. By forming co-operatives and introducing machinery it was thought they could be pulled up by their own bootstraps.

Hundreds of these co-operative villages were consequently organized and tractors brought in—but something was wrong. Peasant boys and girls handling these imported machines were untrained. Tractors were abused, ripped to pieces and then abandoned. This new machine God demanded an exact worship. It demanded priest, mechanic and missionary-engineer.

Then less than 18 months ago there was thought out the "tractor center" scheme—a brand new idea of efficient mechanized co-operative farming. Naturally, it must be changed, re-drawn, and made to fit the varied country conditions of this endless land. But it is the idea that eventually will remake all Russian country life. It is the basis of the real revolution—the deep and solid foundation upon which will be built the Russia of the future.

Plan Tractor Center. For the moment it is planned as follows: A tractor center is established, preferably on a railroad, from this point a circle is drawn with a radius of ten miles. In this tractor center will be housed some 250 tractors, with other farm machinery in proportion. There will be machine and repair shops and in the winter a tractor school.

In the spring groups of tractors, ranging in numbers from eight to 12 or 15, will move out to the various villages in the "county" or "township" community. Each group will be under the general charge of a skilled mechanic, but the tractors and machines will be manned by the young men and women in each village. All labor, except technical and expert mechanics and agronomists, will be supplied by the local villages. Machines will do all the plowing, harrowing, planting and harvesting at a charge of from 25 to 33 1/3 per cent of the crop. Each peasant family will be given its proportionate share according to the amount of land and labor contributed. With the fall plowing finished, the tractors and machinery will be brought into the tractor center, overhauled and repaired and made ready for the spring work.

Pass America, is Aim.

It will mean, if it succeeds, that eventually Russian agricultural life may pass American country life. To date the mechanical genius of America has not been turned on our own agricultural problems. Our city factories have shot ahead with incredible speed while our farming methods have lagged behind. Horses are gone in our cities but they still do ninety per cent of the work on our farms. The small factory unit has been absorbed in our great industrial organization—and yet the small farm hangs on.

Here is Red Russia they have the temerity to build a new and efficient modern agriculture. They see that the machine is as important to the farm as to the city and they are attempting to leap across a half century to static country conditions into the new agricultural world of the future.

Eventually they plan to make this tractor center a social and economic center as well. Here will be established small packing plants, cheese factories, flour mills and a score and one manufacturing establishment to utilize the raw products and the labor of the community. Here, too, will be the community high school and the workers' college—as well as the tractor and machine school. Here will be a central power station that will send light and power to the furthestmost corner of the district.

Peasant is Hopeful.

A new economic life will bring education, culture and a whole new social life. Once successful it will lift the peasant out of the muddle of the past.

Such is the dream. It will be changed, re-drawn and made to fit into the actualities and necessities of the time and place. But it will be based on the coming of the machine to the country, the industrialization of the land. Only through the machine and modern methods can this bearded peasant ever be shaken from his old life of poverty and ignorance.

This is the idea that the peasant is being asked to subscribe to; to throw in his land, his horses and cattle, his equipment and labor, and to become part of this new farm factory. Under the spell and leadership of the powerful, individualistic "Kulak" he hesitates for the moment.

But he is going red. The great, unconscious mass movement for machinery and co-operation has caught him. He is beginning to worship the machine god. He bows and crosses himself before the tractor ikon.

And this tractor will remain the symbol of all this mechanization and industrialization—tractors by the thousands, the tens of thousands, the hundreds of thousands.

MISSING SHIP DRIFTS TO PORT

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Rejoices Over News of Argosy; Crew Of 14 Saved.

By International News Service. ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Jan. 17.—Inhabitants of St. Johns, rejoiced today over receipt of news that the three-masted sailing vessel Neptune, missing for six weeks, had drifted across the Atlantic at the mercy of wind and wave to a safe landing at Tobermory, Scotland.

News of the almost unbelievable argosy was received in a terse message from Tobermory which disclosed that the vessel and its complement of 13 men and one woman had arrived safely at the Scottish port.

The suffering those 14 helpless persons must have endured can only be conjectured. The Neptune, one of a fleet of 11 sailing vessels that put to sea from this port in the face of a roaring gale on November 29, had long been given up for lost.

The little fleet was scattered soon after it had reached open water. Six of these ships were abandoned with the loss of one life, four of them reached port, and as days passed the conviction grew that the Neptune had foundered with loss of all aboard.

On December 13 the S. S. Cedric had reported that a bark resembling the 200-ton Neptune was sighted during the night, but ending days brought no further word. Fortune, however, favored the frail craft, and after six weeks of buffeting, wind and wave drove her across the dangerous north Atlantic to haven.

HOPKINS SAYS HE'LL "LIFT LID"

By International News Service. CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—Considering the charges prepared by city council, presumably the ones on which they based their outburst against him, William R. Hopkins, Cleveland's suspended city manager, today promised that he will lift the lid at his hearing Tuesday and bring out the real reason for his dismissal by the Republican majority of council.

A councilmanic committee of five presented their bill of complaint to city council yesterday—four days after they voted to oust him from office without reconsideration, although the charges at the time were not presented, or, insofar as is known, even definitely decided upon. Council ratified the charge and set next Tuesday as the date for Hopkins' hearing. "The charges will be completely and conclusively answered," Hopkins declared today.

The bill of complaint charges Hopkins with "negligence, an incapacity for harmonious cooperation; usurpation of authority and un-Americanism."

The latter charge specified that Hopkins insulted a group of citizens by saying his ancestors were Republicans while State Senator George H. Bender's ancestors were still roaming the plains of Hungary.

FEDERAL AIDE IS APPOINTED

By International News Service. TOLEDO, O., Jan. 17.—William J. McWilliams, of Youngstown, will succeed George Stauffer, of Ottawa, as United States marshal for the northern district of Ohio, it was indicated in reports here today. The reports said that Senators Fess and McCullough plan to endorse McWilliams for the post which Stauffer has held for eight years.

Infected Foot May Keep Bowen Out Of Game.

A comeback crippled high school basketball squad will pull out of East Liverpool this afternoon, bound for Bellaire, Marietta and a tough week-end basketball grind.

According to all indications this morning, Jimmy Bowen, fast, clever forward, will be on the sidelines when the Zookmen go into action tonight against the Red and White combine at Bellaire and will also be conspicuous by his absence Saturday night when the Potters face the Pioneers.

Bowen, it is understood, may be unable to go onto the court again for a week or possibly two weeks, as a result of an infected foot.

While Coach Zook has several other efficient forwards at his command, the loss of one, nevertheless, robs the team of that much strength.

The squad is scheduled to hop off along about 3 o'clock with Coaches Zook and Dixon, aided by Student Manager Bob Earl, in command.

The squad will include Reese, Sage, Chetwin, Simpson, McConey, Snape, Ashbaugh, Dalrymple, Clarke, Kelly, Mullen and Pierce.

Wellsville at Salem.

Coach Dave Evans' Wellsville squad invades Salem tonight and is counting on another tough battle. After winning three in a row, the Orange and Black fell before the East Liverpool five last week. Evans has been drilling his team in a manto-man type of play.

Special attention is being paid to foul shooting also.

Chester Five Idle.

Coach Roy Knightley's Chester high school passers will be idle tonight, so far as actual combat is concerned, but will keep busy in the way of practice for their game tomorrow night at Wellsville.

It will be the first meeting of the two squads this season.

Newell on Road.

Newell school cagers last night polished off a week of practice in preparation for their engagement tonight at Columbiana.

The game will send the West Virginians against one of the stronger clubs on the Newell schedule and Coach Nate Lora and his squad are anticipating a tough struggle.

Girls at Bellaire.

Miss Miller's East Liverpool high school girls will accompany the Blue and White squad to Bellaire tonight where they will meet the Belmont county lasses in the first half of a double bill.

The girls will return to East Liverpool, however, the boys going on to Marietta. The local sextet is scheduled at Irondale on Saturday night.

They Will Gladly Pay to See Phrail Phil Scott Bite Dust

Miami Thing Appears Poor Match But it May Have Its Drawing Power at That.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Between now and February 27 when Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and Phil Scott, of Miami, put on their "international" boxing exhibition—or whatever it may prove to be—reams of print paper will be devoted to prognostications as to the size of the "gate."

From the viewpoint of a prize fight this is perhaps one of the poorest matches ever foisted on the public by the Madison Square Corporation as a major heavy-weight contest. But that does not mean it will fall to draw the customers into the battleground in colossal numbers. For, as a spectacle, it has its attractive points and may be well worth the money, indeed.

Surely the well-heeled tourists and sports who make the pilgrimage to Florida next month to escape the frigid blasts of the North will not renege at the price of admission just to see Mr. Scott fall. The English heavyweight champion, so-called, has developed the art of collapsing to a degree attained by no other man in the ring today.

It's An Art.

Scott, in previous American appearances, has fallen in every conceivable manner. On the elbow; on the back of his neck; on his tummy. No two times alike. With fainting Phil it's an art. Certainly he will have to do his stuff again, for how can he possibly remain vertical before the annihilating grimaces and gestures the terrible Sharkey man will feel called upon to muster? It should be worth the sheekies just to see the precise manner in which Mr. Scott assumes a horizontal position his next time out.

From a box office standpoint it seems too bad Jack Dempsey will not be connected in some way, officially, with the forthcoming Miami bout. Dempsey's mere presence would have a salutary effect on the receipts. The fact that he was the co-promoter of the last big Miami spectacle, the Sharkey-Strubling affair, was in a large measure responsible for the $100,000 gate and the financial success of that show. He did more than any other individual to put the event across.

Students of boxing recognize Dempsey's great drawing power and are of the opinion that the Madison Square Garden Corporation make a mistake in letting the ex-champ get away from them. In various cities where Dempsey has acted as referee in recent months he has attracted thousands to fight arenas who, had he not been the third man in the ring, would have remained home and got the fight by radio.

There have been suggestions that it would be good business for the Garden people to have Dempsey there as the referee of the Sharkey-Scott affair. It certainly would help the gate. Whether Dempsey would relish the job is something else again. Jack was a thoroughly disgusted man when he left the ring at Madison Square Garden some time ago after refereeing the Scott-Von Porat bout which he awarded to Fainting Phil on a foul.

Doesn't Like Jack.

Dempsey probably never had seen Phil fall before. It was Jack's debut as a referee in a Garden ring. When Phil went down in the second round from what looked to be a slap on the hip, Dempsey stood nonplussed over the agonized pan of the Britisher, expecting he would get up. But no. Mr. Scott writhed and groaned and looked so helpless Referee Dempsey concluded he really must have been hurt after all. So he reached down picked up the Englishman, lugged him to his stool and gave him the fight.

He couldn't have done anything else for the blow was low but when Jack was in there as a fighter he never paid undue attention to a low clout in the bread basket. He could repay in kind—and did.

America's Golf Is Too Good

At Least for British, Avers 1928 Amateur Champ.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—It is highly unlikely that British golf ever again will see the day it can compete on even terms with the man power of America. Thomas Philip Perkins, British amateur champion in 1928, informed the writer today. Incidentally, he refused to trace the English decadence to aristocratic snobbery, which fact in itself was a tacit disclaimer of the story that Perkins saw fit to leave the homeland for America because of hostility, both veiled and overt, that was alleged to have been directed at his non-aristocratic head.

As a matter of fact, he denied that there was an decadence at all. It seemed it wasn't that English golf had gone back. The trouble, he intimated, was that American golf had come so far forward. What with five million people playing here and tournament crowding the calendar from one week to another, he couldn't seem to see where British golf had a chance to compete with America, barring an occasional reaction.

Thomas Philip is said to be planning on becoming an American citizen and seems to be absorbing atmosphere as he goes. He really didn't say "reaction," for instance. He said "break."

"We might develop a Bobby Jones, you know," said he. "That would be a decided break. Another might come on any given day when England's best golfers happen to be playing better than America's best. Otherwise, England's less-than-a-million golfing population, her tendency to depreciate the importance of victory and her lack of players who can afford to give time to the game will more than militate against her success. These conditions will make success prohibitive."

"Most of England's golfing population has to work for a living, with long hours and indifferent pay. To people like this, golf can't be anything more than a recreation."

AT BOSTON — Joe Monte of Brockton, light heavyweight, knocked out Harry Allen, Brockton (4).

AT PHILADELPHIA — Billy Jones, Philadelphia, scored a technical kayo over Don Petrin, Newark (3).

OPEN BIG NINE MAT CAMPAIGN

Ohio State and Michigan Grapplers To Open Conference Season In Capital Gym.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—Ohio State and Michigan grapplers will open the western conference wrestling season here tomorrow night at the Ohio State gym.

The Wolverines, who were nosed out of the conference title last year, are the favorites to win over the Ohio State matmen.

Jack Sloane, of Youngstown, who earned a place on the varsity last week in the elimination matches, appears as the outstanding man of the Scarlet and Gray squad. He will represent the Buckeyes in the 155-pound class.

Saturday's match will be Sloane's initial western conference competition. He came to Ohio State two years ago after winning his letter at Iowa State.

Loos Is Re-Matched With The Gypsy Kid

Local Lad Will Sock Again With Pug Who Knocked Him Out Last Week.

ANNOUNCEMENT of Matchmaker Ray Foutts' fight program at the Eagles' arena, Broadway, next Thursday night reveals the fact that Eddie Loos, local 118-pound boxer, has been re-matched with the Gypsy Kid, of Beaver Falls.

The match is scheduled for a four-spot among the early sessions of the program.

The Gypsy Kid achieved an unexpected and startling victory over Loos when he knocked the local lad out in the fourth and final round of their fight in the same ring last week.

Loos was knocked out with a right to the chin, swung, it seemed, from the Gypsy Kid's heels, after the local lad virtually had the bout in the bag.

The two battled on even terms in the first round but Loos came on in the second and third to pile up points. There was little question about the fact that he had the dark-skinned Pennsylvanian peddling hard at the close of the third and the beginning of the fourth.

Nevertheless, his ring strategy was inefficient. When he had the kid going, he refused to follow through with his advantages. His attack showed too much hesitation and he used his right very little.

In the fourth round he caught up with the Gypsy Kid on one occasion and knocked him off his pins. The kid went down for six, looked warily around and started to rise. Here Loos made the fatal error of leading with his chin and the kid, swinging a right that had lots of stuff on it, found the target.

I demonstrated he was plenty game when he got up to fight after taking a sock like he got there.

The bout will be one of the preliminaries to the Freddy Edwards-Gene Reed eight-round main go.

EQUINE CHAMPS TO COMPETE IN DENVER SHOW

Western Stock Exhibit
To Feature "Wealth
On Hoof."

By International News Service.
DENVER.—The biggest and best —with "more wealth on the hoof" than ever before assembled at one time in one place.

That was the description given today by officials, of the twenty-fourth annual National Western Stock and Horse Show, which opens here at the Stockyards Stadium here on January 18. The show will continue through the following week.

The most representative display of champions in different classes of livestock and poultry ever presented will be included in exhibits, showing the developments of science in its efforts toward greater productivity — and consequent wealth on the farm and range.

Every proven modern development, obtained at the cost of millions of dollars in experimental work at agricultural colleges of various states throughout the country, will be demonstrated and open for study.

New and thrilling entertainment features will mark the brilliant Horse Show.

Louisa Long, of Kansas City, will bring a string of world famous horses to the show that promises keen competition on the track.

Entry of a sensational six horse team of draft horses, from Omaha,
Neb., has aroused great interest.
Included in the cattle exhibit will be the celebrated Baldwin herd of Herefords from California the prize winning Herefords of Herber Chandler of Baker, Ore., and the Foster Farms high class herd, from Rexford, Kan.

More than 400 entries of hogs will be shown in the outstanding breeds of Poland China, Duroc Jersey, Hampshire, Berkshire, and Spotted Poland China. The world's largest sow, weighing 1,137 pounds, will be exhibited by the Colorado
Agricultural college.

In the sheep pens competition in pure bred stock will be keen, with entries from several agricultural colleges and from the flocks of King Brothers of Laramie, Wyo., the Grandfords of Wisconsin, and Mount Hagen of Montana.
King Brothers have brought their magnificent and Corriedales to the show. These flocks have been undefeated for three consecutive years at the Chicago, Omaha and Kansas City shows, and this year they broke an international record in leading out all first places in the ram classes for champion and reserve.

Cattle of all breeds, pet stock of every kind, even to the lowly guinea pig will be seen at the show, many of them being shown by boys' and girls' clubs.

With thousands of hotel reservations made, it is expected the Stock and Horse Show this year will exceed all previous attendance records.

LOW MORTALITY RATE EXPECTED

Less Tubercular Deaths in 1930 is Predicted by New York Insurance Company.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK.—The year 1930 will have the lowest tuberculosis death rate recorded in the United States.
That statement can be made with certainty is indicated by the cumulative mortality rate for all forms of tuberculosis disease up to the end of November, among approximately 13,000,000 industrial policy holders of a New York life insurance company. This rate, to the end of November, was only $5.9 per 100,000, which shows a decrease of 5.7 per cent, as compared with that of the corresponding period of 1928.

The course of the death rate among this large cross-section of the population, about one-sixth of the total, has always been an accurate index of what is happening among the general population.

The increased prosperity of the country, together with the work of various organizations, is held to be responsible for the decline in the tuberculosis death rate, from 2246 per 100,000 lives in 1911 to the 1929 mortality rate, which will be only a little more than one-third the figure for 1911.

BRUCE VISITS TOMB OF KAWA

Pays Tribute To Father of Japanese Mathematics.

By International News Service.
BOSTON.—A mathematician of the West paid homage at the grave of a mathematician of the East when Professor Robert E. Bruce, professor of mathematics at Boston University visited the tomb of Seki Kawa, regarded as the father of Japanese Mathematics, at Tokio, Japan.

Information of the visit was contained in a letter from Professor Bruce, who is touring the far East with Mrs. Bruce, received by the Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

The name of Seki Kawa, inventor of the Japanese form of Calculus, is known to mathematicians all over the world. Two monuments mark his grave at Jorin-ji, 95 Benton Cho, Ushigome, Professor Bruce wrote.

Seki Kawa was born in 1642. He early distinguished himself and had many followers. He was buried upon his death with great honor.

Eighty years afterward, Professor Bruce recounted, the grave was discovered by three men, Masakuni Saito, Yoshinobu Honda, and Norisaka Kimura.

Finding that the inscription had grown dim they took up a collection and built a new monument on which is inscribed the life story of the Japanese mathematician.

GREEK DREAMS OF PLANE TRIP

Would Link United States With Land Of His Birth In Good Will Flight.

By International News Service.
DURHAM, N. C.—Firm in the belief that his fellow countrymen in America will readily contribute to the fund to finance the venture, Nicolas Zapanis, operator of a small restaurant and hotel here, today was mapping plans for his good-will airplane flight to his native Greece.

Zapanis, a naturalized citizen, announced that he hoped to take off in a chartered plane not later than next May. A pilot engaged from the local airport will accompany him on the trip, he said. "There will be no trouble in raising funds for the trip which will cement friendly relations between the United States and Greece," Zapanis stated. "My countrymen in America will gladly help defray the expenses." The would-be trans-Atlantic flier declared he had long cherished the desire to be the first to link his country and the home of his birth by air. Paris has a colored-cigarette fad.

The Bishop Murder Case
Philo Vance Story of Mystery and Crime. . . . By S. S. VAN DINE

MARKHAM was still battling against the acceptance of Vance's theory, and he did not answer. Presently, however, he resumed himself at his desk and drummed with his finger upon the blotter. Then without looking up, he asked:

"Who's in charge of the Sprigg case, sergeant?"

"Captain Pitts. The local men at the 68th Street Station grabbed it first; but when the news was relayed to the bureau, Pitts and a couple of our boys went up to look into it. Pitts got back just before I came over here. Says it's a wash-out. But Inspector Moran told him to stay with it."

Markham pressed the buzzer beneath the edge of his desk, and Swacker, his youthful secretary, appeared at the swinging door that led to the clerical room between the District Attorney's private office and the main waiting room.

"Get Inspector Moran on the wire," he ordered.

When the connection had been made he drew the telephone toward him and spoke for several minutes. When he had replaced the receiver, he gave Heath a weary smile.

"You're now officially handling the Sprigg case, sergeant. Captain Pitts will be here presently, and then we'll know where we stand." He began looking through a pile of papers before him. "I've got to be convinced," he added half-heartedly, "that Sprigg and Robin are tied up in the same sack."

He was a short, stocky man, with a black, hard face and a black brush mustache, arrived ten minutes later. He was, I learned afterwards, one of the most competent men in the Detective Division. His specialty was "white collar" gangsters. He shook hands with Markham and gave Heath a companionable leer.

"Mr. Vance is helping us unofficially with the Robin case, captain," explained Markham, "and since this man Sprigg was killed in the same neighborhood we thought we'd like to hear your preliminary report on the affair." He took out a box of Corona Perfectos and pushed it across the desk.

"You needn't put the request that way, sir." The captain smiled, and selecting a cigar held it to his nose with a kind of voluptuous satisfaction. "The inspector told me you had some ideas about this new case, and wanted to take it on. To tell you the truth, I'm glad to get rid of it." He sat down leisurely, and lighted his cigar. "What would you like to know, sir?"

"Let us have the whole story," said Markham.

Pitts settled himself comfortably. "Well, I happened to be on hand when the case came through—a little after eight this morning—and I took a couple of the boys and beat it uptown. The local men were on the job, and an assistant Medical Examiner arrived the same time I did."

"Did you hear his report, captain?"

"Sure. Sprigg was shot through the top of the head with a .32. No signs of a struggle—no bruises or anything. Nothing fancy. Just a straight shooting."

"Was he lying on his back when found?"

"That's right. Stretched out nice and pretty, right in the middle of the walk."

"And wasn't his skull fractured where he'd fallen on the asphalt?" The question was put negligently.

Pitts took his cigar from his mouth and gave Vance a sly look. "I guess maybe you fellows over here do know something about this case." He nodded his head sagaciously. "Yes, the back of the guy's skull was all bashed in. He sure had a tough fall. But I guess he didn't feel it—not with that bullet in his brain."

"Speaking of the shot, captain, didn't anything about it strike you as peculiar?"

"Well . . . yes," Pitts admitted, rolling his cigar meditatively between his thumb and forefinger. "The top of a guy's head isn't where I'd ordinarily look for a bullet-hole. And his hat wasn't touched—it must have fallen off before he was potted. You might call those facts peculiar, Mr. Vance."

"Yes, Captain, they're dashed peculiar . . . And I take it the pistol was held at close range."

"Not more'n a couple of inches, I'd say. The hair was singed round the hole." He made a broad gesture of inconsequence. Still and and amazing part of the investigation of Sprigg's death.

Vance glanced only casually at the exhibit, but Markham held it in his hand frowning at it for several moments. He was about to make some comment when he caught Vance's eye; and, instead, he tossed the paper to the desk carelessly with a slight shrug.

"Is this everything you found?"

"That's all, sir."

Markham rose.

"We're very grateful to you, Captain. I don't know what we'll be able to make out of this Sprigg case, but we'll look into it." He pointed to the box of Perfectos. "Put a couple in your pocket before you go."

"Much obliged, sir," Pitts selected the cigars, and placing them tenderly in his waistcoat pocket, shook hands with all of us.

When he had gone Vance got up with alacrity, and bent over the scrap on Markham's desk.

"My word!" He took out his monocle and studied the symbols for several moments. "Most alluring. Now where have I seen that formula recently? . . . Ah! The riemann-christoffel tensor—of course! Drukker uses it in his book for determining the Gaussian curvature of spherical and homaloidal space. . . . But what was Sprigg doing with it? The formula is considerably beyond the college curricula."

"He held the paper up to the light. 'It's the same stock as that on which the Bishop notes are written. And you probably observed that the typing is also similar.'"

Heath had stepped forward, and now scrutinized the paper.

"It's the same, all right." The fact seemed to nonplus him. "That's a link anyway between the two crimes."

Vance's eyes took on a puzzled look.

"A link-yes. But the presence of the formula under Sprigg's body appears as irrational as the murder itself."

Markham moved uneasily.

"You say it is a formula that Drukker uses in his book?"

"Yes. But the fact doesn't necessarily involve him. The tensor

Dangerous Stomach Catarrh
Often Mistaken for Indigestion. Watch These Symptoms.

Thousands of people have Catarrh of the Stomach and don't know it. They treat it as indigestion. Yet coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, rumbling, bitter eructations and gas are all common symptoms of dangerous Gastric Catarrh.

In this disease, a coating of phlegm covers the mucous membrane lining of the stomach, so that digestive fluids cannot mix with and digest the food. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and deadly cancer may develop.

Pepsin pills, soda mints and artificial digestants should never be used in such cases. Instead, right after meals, take a teaspoonful or two of tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia in a glass of hot water. This will wash away the mucus, draw the blood to the stomach, neutralize acidity, prevent sourness, gas and fermentation and permit natural, easy, painless digestion. The whole stomach is cleaned, strengthened and sweetened. Be sure to get genuine Bisurated Magnesia for this purpose. Any good druggist can supply you, and it is safe, easy and pleasant to use.—Adv.

LAUGHS AT DANGER OF PARROT FEVER

This young lady is deliberately scoffing at the strange disease, parrot fever, which has broken out in various parts of the world and caused the public health service at Washington to issue a warning against the purchase of newly imported parrots. Three people have been stricken at Annapolis, Md., and several deaths are reported from Germany. (Continued on Newsweek)

"SAP" TURNS OUT TO BE WISE GUY IN "SO WAS NAPOLEON," NEW PLAY

Miss Ersi, Australian Blond Beauty and Hugh O'Connell Portray Leading Roles.

BY DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service
Dramatic Editor.

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service)
NEW YORK—I got a knockout idea for the Great American Comedy, Mr. Belasco. You take a sap, see. And you make him turn out a wise guy. Do I get the job?
This theme, as rare as an Indian in the days of 1492, is to be spotted in "So Was Napoleon," by Jack O'Donnell and John Wray.

Littleton Looney, of Syracuse, is the sap. There is no trace any sapier in the most exclusive maple syrup grove.
Littleton inherits $18,000 from an aunt who must have died without talking to him. The hometown chamber of commerce gives him a farewell banquet. Littleton speaks through a phony radio microphone, accepts a faded horseshoe of flowers and the bill for the entire affair with tears in his eyes. The practical jokers are not through with Looney yet. Out at sea they send telegrams to the captain of the ship signed by Al Smith, Otto H. Kahn, Mayor Jimmy Walker and Governor Franklin

D. Roosevelt, asking him to take especially good care of that distinguished engineer, Littleton Looney.

Aboard ship is a beautiful French woman, the Countess de Bonchard (Elsa Erai) who is about to lose her fortune because she cannot fulfill her contract for getting machinery to her nickel mines in Bolivia. She pounces upon the reputation of the sap and makes him promise he will think up an engineering plan to save her mines before her option expires.

To drop from the ridiculous to the sentimental, at the zero hour Littleton falls his Countess and admits he isn't any kind of an engineer. But in the midst of his pratfall he solves the great Bolivian nickel problem by suggesting that they dry up the river and make a roadway to the mines.
I am no engineer but it sounds unethical to me.

Miss Ersi, Austrian blonde beauty, appearing in her first non-musical production, sings one song as she holds the hand of her sap near the finale. It is a remarkable musical exhibition inasmuch as there is no instrument accompanying her.
Hugh O'Connell, as Littleton Looney, who comicalized in "The Rack" and "Gentlemen of the Press," does his best to make a character role out of a gag-man's part.

PROBLEM OF 'IT' IS STUDIED BY COLLEGE CLASS

To "See Ourselves as Others See Us," Pupils' Goal.

BOULDER, Colo.—Have you halitosis? Are you luckily gifted with "It" or "That"? Are you afflicted with dandruff or dirty teeth? Are you well bred—conceited—well dressed—honest—humorous; of good posture and poise? Or are you just so much well preserved boloney?
To "see ourselves as others see us" is the objective of a class in personal psychology at the University of Colorado here.
And if your best friend won't tell you the bitter truth about the foregoing characteristics, you can learn it with brutal frankness in the personal psychology class conducted by Prof. Thomas Howells.
The class, comprising fourteen students, was formed recently for students of "more than ordinary courage" and their main duty is to test each other and to give each other truthful if disturbing answers. Now within the walls of the state university that is exactly what is being done daily—even down to such personal little things as halitosis and dirty teeth.
Seek the Truth.
The co-eds, apparently, have more desire to learn "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" than the male students in general, according to the roster.
There are eight girls and six men in the class of Professor Howells, who formerly conducted such classes at the University of Iowa. The ratio of men and women students there was about the same, he says.
Occasionally there is a complaint—when a certain person's self-esteem is jarred to the extent that he or she will say that personal prejudice is the cause of adverse opinions as to his or her personality, according to Professor Howells.
"The majority, however, consider the system an excellent thing, as it offers them the opportunity of learning what others really think of them," said Professor Howells.

POETIC PRINCE
DIES IN EGYPT
Name of Haidar Fazil Renowned Among French Speaking People for His Verse.
CAIRO—The prince-poet of Egypt is dead.
Prince Haidar Fazil, cousin to King Fouad and one of the best known and loved members of the royal family of Egypt, who has just died, had made his name renowned throughout French speaking civilization by the quality of his verse.

Several of the most coveted French literary prizes have gone to him. His "L'Homme Hereux" won the Langueadoc award, while his best known work is probably "Les Roses Etrangerees."
His villa was a gathering place for the most cultured and artistic circle in Egypt, and a distinguished group attended his funeral ceremony.

INFANT DEATH RATE IS HIGH

Material Morality Also Greater in U. S. Than any Other Civilized Country.

By International News Service.
DENVER—Speaking before a group of organizations launching a drive to fight death among mothers and infants in Denver during the coming year, Dr. B. C. Lockhead, deputy health officer of Rochester, Minn., declared that six hundred infants less than a year old die in the United States each day, and that every day a ratio of one mother dies in childbirth to every two American soldiers killed on the battlefield during the World War.

Dr. W. H. Halley, noted Denver physician, disclosed that no civilized country in the world has a higher infant and maternal mortality than the United States.

CARE OF BABES SCHOOL STUDY

Sixth Grade Girls in Denver Junior High Become Familiar With Job Mother Holds.

By International News Service.
DENVER—A course in the care of infants has been inaugurated for one hundred sixth grade girls in Denver Junior high school and live infants as well as life-size dolls are being used for demonstrations.

"Never rock a baby," was the first principle laid down for future mothers. The course is being conducted by Mrs. Beniah McBride. "It is amazing how enthralled the girls are in the study of infant care and the variety of questions they ask," Miss Anna Laura Force, school principal, said. "The girls range in age mostly from 12 to 14, just the age when they take a lively interest in babies. The sparkle in their eyes as they listen to the nurse is indicative of their interest."

LAUNCH SPEEDY BOAT SERVICE

Trip From San Francisco To Hawaii Can Be Made Now In Eight Days.

By International News Service.
NEW YORK — Inaugurating a transcontinental boat train service providing for connection with the Matson liner Malolo at San Francisco without change of trains, one hundred and twenty-five passengers will leave eastern cities January 21 and board the Honolulu-bound liner January 25, completing the trip to Hawaii in exactly eight days.

Three cars will form the first section of the train leaving New York and two additional cars will originate at Pittsburgh, one at Boston, one at Philadelphia and three more at Chicago. The all-Pullman train, made up exclusively of Malolo passengers will operate on the fast schedule of the Twentieth Century, Broadway and Overland Limiteds and will make only those stops scheduled on the regular run of these trains.

It is estimated that electric power developed in Germany last year totaled 30,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

Great Britain reports that, as far as it is concerned, the trans-Atlantic telephone is self-supporting.
